

Pier 1

Project Overview

This restoration project turned a San Francisco waterfront warehouse into offices and public open space. Water surrounding the building is circulated through radiant tubes in the floor, moderating the temperature. Generated heat dissipates into the bay through a submersed condenser water loop.

Location:

San Francisco California
United States

Submitting Architect:

SMWM

Source URL: <https://www.aiaopten.org/node/535>